Prospects in General

By GEORGE WILSON

Head Coach, MIAMI DOLPHINS

On the banquet circuit during the winter, I stated that our new entry in the American Football League would be competitive during the 1966 campaign, and I still feel that way.

We are aware that the task facing our coaching staff is an enormous one. We, too, know that just about every new team which has entered professional sports in recent years has had to struggle for a few seasons, and some of them are still struggling. These are teams, like ours, that were built, by drafting players from other teams in their respective leagues.

It's always nicer to talk about possible strong points first. In our case, one must allow for a certain amount of strength concerning receivers and defensive backs. Bo Roberson's pass receiving helped Buffalo win the championship last year, and Frank Jackson was a good flanker for Kansas City. Dave Kocourek, tight end who came to us from San Diego, can grab a pass too.

Among the rookies, speedy split end John Roderick, from Southern Methodist is a name to remember.

Defensive backs who have come to us well-recommended include Jim Warren and Dick Westmoreland from the San Diego Chargers, Willie West from the New York Jets, and John McGeever from the Denver Broncos. Bob Neff from Stephen F. Austin College, is one of our top rookies in the defensive back department.

Frank Emanuel, rookie from Tennessee, showed exceptional ability last year as collegiate linebacker. He was the Dolphins number two draft choice. Wahoo McDaniel, from New York, and Tom Erlandson, from Denver, are experienced linebackers.

Ed Cooke of Denver and LaVerne Torczon, N.Y. Jets, are among our top veteran defensive ends, and rookie Johnny Holmes from Florida A&M has shown promise.

On offense we were fortunate to draft such quarterbacks as lanky Dick Wood from Oakland and Eddie Wilson from Boston, both pretty good passers and field directors. The same is true of rookie quarterbacks Rick Norton and George Wilson, Jr. Billy Joe from Buffalo and Sam Price, a rookie from Illinois, can give power to our running attack.

And there's a familiar name who is giving the fullback job a real try, Rick Casares, the former Chicago Bears ace. He's a Florida native and would really like to play at home.

In the offensive line, Norm Evans and Maxie Williams, both from Houston, at the tackles; Billy Neighbors from Boston and Ernie Park from San Diego, at the guards; and centers Mike Hudock from New York and Tom Goode from Houston are the men we expect to form a good nucleus.

The field goal is one of pro football's most important weapons. Here we think we have a good one in Gene Mingo, drafted from Oakland.

There's a man who hasn't been mentioned up to now. Howard Twilley, rookie split end, who set ever so many national pass catching records at the University of Tulsa. He is recovering from a knee operation. To use an old expression, "we have our fingers crossed." It is doubtful if he will see much action during the early part of the campaign, but we are hopeful he'll be ready before too long.

As for our biggest problems . . . they'll be coming at us from eight different directions . . . from Buffalo . . . from Boston . . . from New York . . . from Houston . . . from Kansas City . . . from Denver . . . from Oakland . . . and from San Diego.

The Coaches

George Wilson

 Head Coach

By Bill Braucher, Miami Herald

Rick Casares, doused in sweat from the heat of St. Petersburg Beach, observed in camp recently that the defense is worked harder here than in any camp I've ever seen."

Casares, the former University of Florida standout, is an authority on pro camps. The Dolphins' fullback has seen 10 of the pre-season ordeals in a distinguished fullback career with the Chicago Bears.

George Wilson, the Dolphins' vigorous head coach, is a believer in defensive toughness. As a player with the Bears and coach of the Detroit Lions, Wilson was connected with clubs who built reputations on defensive character.

Despite innovations like the safetyman blitz and stunting in the line, defense remains largely a matter of desire. And Wilson knows that desire is contagious.

Under his direction, the Lions were developed as a sturdy, aggressive team from which no quarter could be expected. This toughness kept them always in contention in a National Football League Western Division that included such sturdy rivals as Green Bay, Baltimore and Chicago.

Daily witnesses to the two-a-day Dolphins practices in the early days at St. Pete were impressed by the heavy hitting and the increasing aggressiveness being molded into the new American Football League team.

While Wilson was tough, he was considerate. Both the rookies and veterans soon discovered why he is known as a player's coach. Occasionally Wilson would break the routine with time off when the inevitable lull would occur or competitive practice diversions such as relay races and drills where the receivers threw to the quarterbacks.

"Sometimes, when you would feel all alone out there," said Howard Twilley, rookie flanker from the University of Miami, "Coach Wilson would come up with something to pick you up. Little things, like cutting off practice a few minutes early when the guys were all tired.

"When he does something like that for me," said the Rookie Twilley, "I want to do twice as much for him."

Wilson constantly applies himself to handling men. "Some need a little chewing now and then," he says, "and others need encouragement."

When John Roderick, the gifted receiver and No. 1 future draft-choice from Southern Methodist, came down with flu the first week of practice he became disconsolate. Under Wilson's kindly, steady prodding, Roderick could become the AFL Rookie of the Year.

"He reminds me of Lance Alworth so much it scares me," said end Dave Kocourek, who at San Diego last year was a teammate of Alworth, regarded as the finest receiver in the AFL.

"All Roderick needed was a little encouragement to build his confidence," said Wilson. "As a result, he improved as much as anyone in camp. He stayed out on the field after practice and worked at becoming the outstanding flanker we think he can be."

Wilson may never be known as a coach with the awesome dedication and constant application of a Paul Brown or Sid Gilman, whose thoughts seldom stray from the x's and o's.

But Wilson has a unique personal touch and understanding of human strength and frailty that sets him apart. Sooner or later his players come to understand and appreciate this quality. The result is boundless team effort, the kind that wins football games.

And that is the way George Wilson wants it.

Wilson is married and he and his wife have five children.

ERNIE HEFFERLE
Offensive Line Coach

Ernie Hefferle has a wealth of football experience, both as a player and coach. He is most qualified to coach the promising crop of Dolphins offensive linemen.

Hefferle played his college football at Duquesne University, where he was an outstanding end. He was graduated from Duquesne in 1937.

He began his coaching career in Pittsburgh area high schools, and stayed with the preps until 1950 when he became an assistant at the University of Pittsburgh. He remained at Pittsburgh through the 1958 season. He spent the 1959 season as an assistant with the Washington Redskins. He was head football coach at Boston College in 1960 and 1961. He returned to the University of Pittsburgh as an assistant coach for the next three years, and last fall was an assistant with the NFL Pittsburgh Steelers.

Ernie, 50, is no stranger to veteran Orange Bowl fans. In the Orange Bowl Classic of 1937 he scored the winning touchdown for Duquesne over Mississippi State on a 72-yard pass play from quarterback Boyd Brumbaugh in the waning moments of play.

He is married and he and his wife have three daughters.

BOBBY WALSTON
Receivers and Place Kicking Coach

Bobby Walston is the newest member of the Miami Dolphins coaching staff. On June 29, he resigned as director of player personnel with the Philadelphia Eagles to accept the Miami post.

The 39-year-old Walston is one of the all-time greats of pro football. An outstanding end and place-kicker who spent all of his 12-year career with the Eagles, he is the second leading scorer of all time in the NFL. His 881 points are surpassed only by the 1,195 compiled by Cleveland's Lou Groza.

Originally from Columbus, Ohio, Walston joined the Eagles in 1951 after a standout career at the University of Georgia where he led the Southeastern Conference in receiving in 1948.

His 881 points are, of course, the Eagles club

Ernie Hefferle

record. He also holds the Philadelphia record for most points in one season, 114, and most points one game, 25.

When he retired as a player at the end of the 1962 season, he had played 19 seasons through high school, college, and the pros, missing just one game.

Bobby is married and the Walstons are the parents of one girl and two boys.

JOHN IDZIK Offensive Backfield Coach

John Idzik has the distinction of coaching the last football team at the University of Detroit, where he served as head coach for four years.

When Detroit discontinued football after the 1964 season, Idzik moved to Tulane where he was the chief assistant on the staff of head coach Tommy O'Boyle.

The 37-year-old Philadelphian is a graduate of the University of Maryland. He played both football and baseball for the Terrapins. In football, he earned four letters at halfback and at the conclusion of his senior campaign was selected to play for the South in the 1950 North-South Shrine game.

He was graduated in 1951, receiving his B.S. degree in physical education. At graduation, he received the TEKE trophy for having made the biggest contribution to Maryland athletics among his classmates.

In 1951, Idzik was an assistant coach at his alma mater and then put in two years of service in the U. S. Marines. He played football in 1952 in the service and was an All-Marine selection.

In 1954, Idzik resumed his coaching career, becoming backfield coach at the University of Tennessee. After two years there he had one campaign as backfield instructor of the Ottawa Rough Riders in the Canadian Football League. Then came three seasons back at his alma mater, Maryland, again as backfield coach. In 1960, John was named offensive coach at the University of Detroit, and the following year became head coach.

Idzik is married and the father of two girls and a boy.

LES BINGAMAN Defensive Line Coach

Les Bingaman and Dolphins Head Coach George Wilson had five successful years working together with the Detroit Lions (1960-64) when Bingaman served as Wilson's defensive line coach.

During the past year, the 40-year-old Bingaman served as a talent scout for the NFL where he had the opportunity to look over some of the current Dolphin talent.

When Wilson was signed by the Dolphins, he lost little time in corralling Bingaman as defensive line coach.

For seven years, Bingaman led a devastating Detroit defense that blasted the Lions to three Western Division and two National League championships. As giant middle guard (he was 6-3 and 275 when he broke into the pros) he made three all-pro squads and helped revolutionize pro football defenses.

A 1947 graduate of the University of Illinois, he was a member of the Illinois team that defeated UCLA in the 1947 Rose Bowl game.

Born in MacKenzie, Tennessee, he went to high school in Gary, Indiana.

BOB PELLEGRINI Linebacker Coach

Bob Pellegrini, 31, is a young man leaving the ranks of players to join the coaches. He has been a linebacker for the past nine years in the NFL, five with the Philadelphia Eagles and the last four with the Washington Redskins.

He was a first draft choice of the Eagles in 1956 after an All-American center-linebacker career with the University of Maryland. With Maryland, he played in the Orange Bowl games of 1954 and 1956, and was co-captain of the Maryland squad in 1955. He was also chosen as the outstanding player in the Chicago College All-Star game in 1956, and participated in the Senior Bowl that year.

He is thoroughly qualified for the role of linebacker coach, having played both middle and outside linebacker with the pros.

John Idzik

Les Bingaman

Originally from Yatesboro, Pennsylvania, he is married and has two sons and a daughter.

TOM KEANE
Defensive Backfield Coach

Tom Keane was an All-Pro defensive halfback during his playing days in the NFL. After graduating from West Virginia University, he played for the Los Angeles Rams, Baltimore Colts and Chicago Cardinals.

Keane, 37, began his coaching career with the Chicago Cardinals as a defensive backfield coach in 1957. In 1960 he was defensive coach for Calgary in the Canadian League.

From 1961-1964 he served as head coach and general manager of the Wheeling Ironmen of the United Football League where his teams won championships in 1962 and 1963.

Last season was spent as defensive backfield coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Keane was an outstanding quarterback at West Virginia where he graduated in 1949. After a two-year stint in the Navy, he joined the Los Angeles Rams as offensive end and defensive halfback, playing on two conference and one league championship team.

In 1952 he was traded to Dallas in the NFL, but moved to Baltimore when the franchise changed. In 1953, he was selected as an All-Pro defensive halfback.

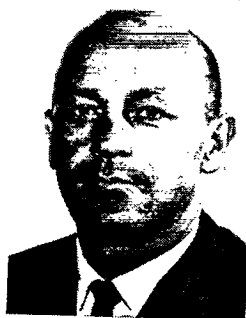

A native of Bellaire, Ohio, he is married and has two boys and a girl.

ROBERT LUNDY
Trainer

For the past four year, Bob Lundy was assistant

Bob Pellegrini

Tom Keane

trainer for the Detroit Lions, and for five years prior to that was the head trainer in all sports at the University of Detroit.

Previously, he served as an assistant trainer at Indiana University and at Boston University.

A native of Wollaston, Mass., Lundy is a 1955 graduate of Boston University, majoring in physical education. He is also currently pursuing a masters degree in athletic training.

The 30-year-old Lundy is married and he and his wife have two young sons.

CHARLES "CHUCK" ZIOBER Equipment Manager

Charles "Chuck" Ziober is not new to the American Football League. For the past two seasons he held a similar position with the Denver Broncos.

A native of Irvington, N.J., and a star high school athlete, Ziober signed a contract as a catcher with the New York Yankees in 1941 and played 22 games with the Newark farm team of the Yanks that year. A sore arm ended his baseball career.

Starting with World War II, he began a 23-year career in the U. S. Marines from which he retired as a master sergeant in 1964.

Dolphin Owners

DANNY THOMAS

From a job as a candy butcher in Toledo theaters to a star in the entertainment world, and from a lifetime interest in sports to becoming general partner in the ownership of the American Football League's newest team, describes in brief the road traveled by Danny Thomas.

Thomas was born in Deerfield, Michigan, on January 6, 1919, to parent of Lebanese extraction. His father moved to Toledo, Ohio, while he was still young, and he began his show career by playing and singing at neighborhood gatherings.

While still in his teens, he hitchhiked to Detroit to begin what became a very successful radio career. During the course of his work in Detroit radio, he met Rosemarie Mantell, who later became his wife.

The show business career of Danny Thomas has touched every entertainment medium. Currently he is limiting his efforts to television production and appearances at a few select night clubs. He recently played to capacity crowds at the Deauville in Miami Beach.

JOSEPH ROBBIE

Joseph Robbie is a 50-year-old father of 11 who still has the enthusiasm of his undergraduate days at the University of South Dakota. Heading up an "eleven," as the Dolphins managing partner, is nothing new for him.

Campus leader, lawyer, former sports editor and Navy veteran, Robbie also is a sharpminded orator. He was a national debate and oratory champion in college and never has gotten out of practice.

Joseph Robbie

He brings to Miami and the Dolphins a record of achievement which includes student government president at South Dakota, state Representative and Vice President Hubert Humphrey's personal representative on the 1965 Inaugural Committee.

Robbie is a practicing lawyer in Minneapolis where he and Mrs. Robbie maintain their home. Now that the Dolphins are getting underway, they will maintain a home in Miami also. The 11 young Robbies range from three to 22 years old.

He shares an interest in St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, of Memphis, with Danny Thomas, his general partner in the Dolphins, who founded the hospital. Robbie is a member of the St. Jude executive committee.

JOHN O'NEIL

John O'Neil, former Miami newspaperman, is now associated with varied business enterprises in Miami.

O'Neil, a native of Newton, Massachusetts, was educated at St. Brieuc in France, and at Boston College.

O'Neil is playing an active role in managing the Dolphins. He represents the Dolphins at various public functions in Miami, and acts as a liaison between the Dolphins and the top business, industrial and social communities of the city.

FRED GATES

Fred Gates is a man with wide experience in business and public service. He is the owner of the Pioneer Distributing Company of Minneapolis, and is associated in other business enterprises.

Gates has also been active in public affairs. He has served under both President Kennedy and President Johnson as president of the Advisory Committee to the U. S. Post Office Department.

MARTIN DECKER

Martin Decker is a builder. This statement, while simple, nevertheless describes the man who built a small scientifically oriented firm with 14 employees into the giant Decker Corporation which now occupies 11 buildings.

Decker is chairman of the board of the D.C. National Bank in Washington and chairman of the board of the National Aeronautic Association.

SULLIVAN BARNES

Sullivan Barnes is a man very well acquainted with the American Football League, having been legal counsel for the league during its first four years.

Barnes is a former member of the South Dakota Legislature and was a successful practicing attorney in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. He now has his own firm in Denver, Colorado, which is engaged in marketing services.

GEORGE A. HAMID, JR.

Like his famous father, George A. Hamid, Jr., has become a leader in the entertainment world. He holds executive positions with the New Jersey State Fair, the Hamid-Morton Circus, the Hamid Theatres, Philadelphia Theatre of the Sea, and Trenton Speedway.

He is a director of the Atlantic City Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the Progress Council. In 1952, he authored a biography of his father entitled "Circus."

Hamid and his family, including five children, live in Margate, New Jersey.

GEORGE A. HAMID, SR.

George A. Hamid, Sr. was born in a little town in Lebanon in February, 1896. His education consisted of three grades in Arabian schools. He learned tumbling and acrobatics on the village streets and at nine joined a circus. At 13, he was acrobatic world champion.

He later became a booking agent for circus and outdoor talent. His agency grew to be the world's largest. In 1936, he took over ownership and control of the New Jersey State Fair. In 1945, he acquired control of the Atlantic City Steel Pier.

MAX M. KAMPELMAN

Max M. Kampelman is a member of the New York and Washington, D.C., law firm of Strasser, Spiegelberg, Fried, Frank and Kampelman.

Active and knowledgeable in political and governmental affairs, he is the author of several books, including "The Communist Party vs. the CIO" and "The Strategy of Deception," which he co-authored.

He has also contributed many articles to political and law journals.

A member of dozens of educational, political and governmental organizations, he served as legislative counsel to Vice President Hubert Humphrey when Humphrey was in the U.S. Senate.

The 46-year-old attorney and his wife, Marjorie, have five children and live in Washington, D.C.

ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF

JOE THOMAS

Executive Assistant and Director of Player Personnel

Joe Thomas is recognized as a most astute judge of football talent. His work in helping build the Minnesota Vikings into an exciting NFL contender is recognized as a masterpiece in professional football circles.

His work with the Miami Dolphins has been equally exciting and productive. He was able to sign 11 of his top twenty draft choices. The 31 veterans he selected from the other AFL teams included 19 who were regulars and several who have gained All-league recognition.

Thomas, 44 and a bachelor, is a native of Warren, Ohio. He graduated from Northern University in 1943. He holds both a Masters and Doctors degree from Indiana University.

An outstanding end at Ohio Northern, Thomas also played end for the Navy's Great Lakes Naval Training Center team. His end coach there was Weeb Ewbank.

He began his college coaching career at DePauw where he was an assistant in football and basketball and head baseball coach. He moved into professional football in 1954 as an assistant to his old coach Ewbank with the Baltimore Colts.

Thomas was the first person hired by the Minnesota Vikings in the spring of 1960, and the first person hired by President Joe Robbie last October, as preparations began to build the Dolphins.

Chuck Burr

Charlie Callahan

CHARLES (CHUCK) BURR
Business Manager

Charles (Chuck) Burr is hardly a stranger to the American Football League. Since the inauguration of the circuit in 1960, he had been the director of public relations for the Buffalo Bills, and for the past three years had the added duties of assistant general manager.

His duties at Buffalo included those of traveling secretary, film narrator, advertising salesman and movie and radio contract negotiator.

Burr, 39, is a native of Buffalo, and a graduate of Buffalo State College. In college, he won letters in basketball and tennis. After graduating from college, he had five years as director of sports information and assistant director of development at the University of Buffalo before joining the Bills organization.

In World War II, he was an Army para-trooper seeing combat duty in the European theater.

Chuck is married and has three daughters and a son, Eileen, 7, Kristine, 9, Brian, 12, and Kathleen, 13. They now make their home in Hollywood, Fla.

CHARLES M. CALLAHAN
Director of Public Relations

Charlie Callahan came to the Dolphins after a 20-year stay at Notre Dame.

Following graduation from Notre Dame in 1938, Callahan served in many sports publicity positions. He was director of sports publicity at the New York World's Fair, director of publicity for the New York Football Americans as well as for the New York Football Yankees in the old American Football League.

Callahan began his long term association with Notre Dame following World War II Experience in the Army Air Corps.

The 50-year-old Callahan has purchased a home in South Miami where he lives with his wife and 12-year-old son, Michael.

He is a native of Lexington, Mass.

BOB BRINER
Promotion Director

A native of Dallas, Texas, Bob Briner, 30, has a wide variety of experience in the world of sports. He has been a player, coach, athletic director and sports publicist.

Briner graduated from Greenville College, Illinois, where he earned varsity letters in basketball and baseball. After four successful years as a high school coach, he moved in as Director of Athletics at Malone College, Canton, Ohio, and then to Spring Arbor College in Spring Arbor, Michigan. In 1964 he was honored as Michigan's College Baseball "Coach of the Year."

Prior to accepting his post with the Dolphins, Briner served as Sports Information Director at Eastern Michigan University.

He is married and the father of two children, Robby, 7, and Claudia Leigh, 3.

JACK MCGOWAN
Ticket Manager

In Jack McGowan, the Dolphins have a man who is eminently qualified for the role of Ticket Manager.

For the past seven years, he has had the same assignment for the Orange Bowl New Year's game and for many other Orange Bowl activities, including the pro-playoff game.

A native of New York City, Jack gained his early ticket experience while working for the ticket office at Madison Square Garden.

He has lived in Miami for 17 years, and besides the Orange Bowl has handled tickets for such varied events as Holiday on Ice, championship fights, and major league baseball exhibition games.

CHARLES GESINO

Group and Season Ticket Sales

Charles Gesino joined the Dolphins after serving in an executive capacity in minor league baseball for the past five years.

For the last two years he was general manager of the Raleigh Cardinals, in Raleigh, N.C., Class A affiliate of the St. Louis Cardinals. Prior to that, he was assistant general manager in Atlanta, Ga., and Portsmouth, Va., and general manager in Statesville, N.C. He also covered ACC football for the Raleigh News & Observer.

Before leaving Miami in 1960, he was assistant public relations director of the Orange Bowl Festival for two years, and an editor of TV Guide magazine.

A graduate in 1954 of New York University, he received his Bachelor of Science degree in Journalism.

In addition to his duties with the Dolphins, he serves as Promotion Director of Hialeah Race Course.

ROY CHAMPION

Accountant

Roy Champion is a 15-year Florida resident who is entering the sports world for the first time.

Prior to joining the Dolphins as accountant, Champion served in the same capacity with Polly Davis Cafeterias for 13 years.

A native of Alexander City, Alabama, Champion attended Massey Draughon Business College in Montgomery. He later majored in higher accounting at LaSalle Extension University in Chicago, Ill.

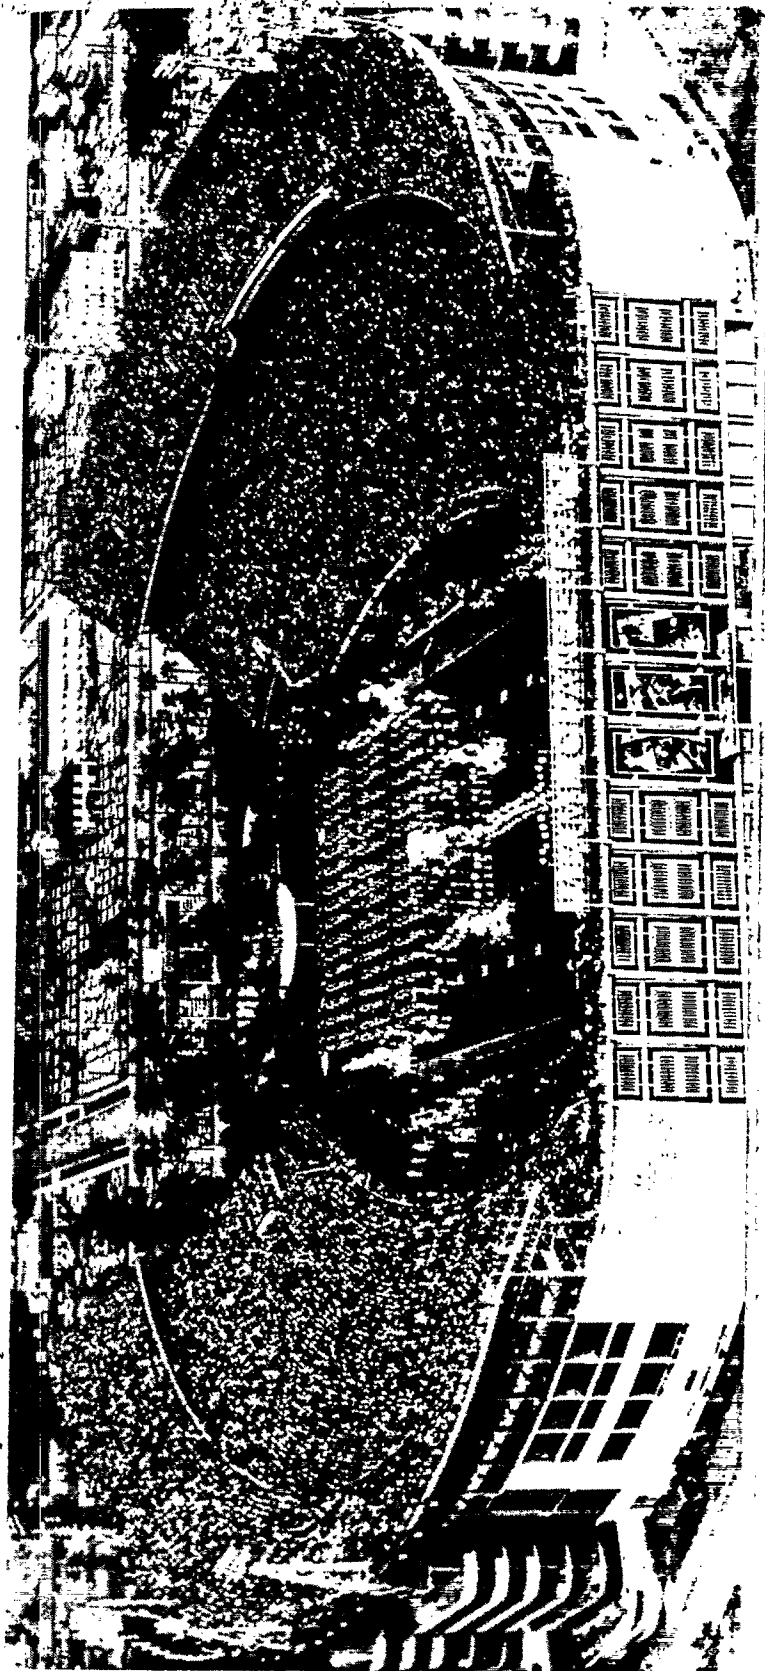

Champion, 37, is married and has a 17-year-old daughter, Sherry. He and his family live in Hollywood, Fla.
